Everything Is Welded Into

of Bosses(This is the fourth in a series of six articles on Japan's "hidden government," a fantastic organization of political gangsters that threatens to bring new disaster on the country.)By Howard Handleman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)TOKYO, Nov. 6.—(INS)—American authorities in Japan have finally begun to penetrate the "mystery"
of Japan which has puzzled foreigners for decades.Through the newly discovered
"hidden government" they have begun to understand what makes Japan tick.The key to the "mystery" is a complex system of social relationships in which there are no men of importance acting independently.Everything in Japan is welded into a unit through a system of bosses, one on top of another.This system of controls is ancient, although it appears in none of the standard histories, and it affects the life of every Japanese, although few are aware of it.Through knowledge of the "hidden government" and its power comes understanding of many things in Japan.The peaceful occupation. The Emperor's order to "bear the unbearable" set the course. The "oyabun" or bosses in the political, economic and gangster fields held the course.Much of the apparently spontaneous obedience to the Emperor is enforced by the hidden controls of the unofficial government of Japan. The "oyabun" are the greatest supporters of the emperor system.The apparent unity of the Japanese people. The "oyabun" whip the who pleaded guilty of driving while drunk was severely upbraided by Judge Calvin S. Boyer before being sentenced.He is George Walter Leak, of 11 N. 50th street, Philadelphia. The driving while under influence of liquor took place in West Rockhill township on Sunday, October 12th.The motorist, who changed his story to Trooper M. P. Yetter, of the Quakertown substation, drew the wrath of the Court because he first insisted that he had only one general beer but later told the truth which was that he had a bottle of whisky in his car.Judge Calvin S. Boyer, who sentenced him to pay a fine of $150 and the costs of prosecution, placed the motorist on probation for one year.The Philadelphia motorist, who was out "Sunday driving" and was drinking from a bottle which he kept in the car, ran into a fence along the old Bethlehem pike. No one was injured although there was a passenger in the car.The defendant was pronounced unfit to drive by Dr. Frank S. Inketter, of Sellersville.Judge Boyer lectured the motorist for drinking and driving his car on Sunday, especially, menacing

the life and property of others.

Lenient during the war years because it was almost impossible to get material and to hire labor so that repairs might be made to pavements, many of which have been in a deplorable condition, Sellersville borough council on Monday decided to make an appeal to the property owners to have their pavements repaired immediately. Council feels it is now possible to get the material and labor, and that no time should be wasted in making the improvements.Representatives of the State Highway Department, it was announced, were in the borough for the purpose of making a survey of hazardous conditions particularly as they exist on the town's main street, which is a part of Route 309.The representatives agreed to have Noble street from Main street to Washington avenue reconditioned and to remove a concrete abutment on Main street at the intersection of Church street and Route 309 in order to provide a better view for motorists entering Main street from Church street. The abutment will be replaced by an iron railing.The pavement on North Main street, near the Reading station, will be repaired, and a new drain pipe will be installed on Maple avenue, near the playground.William Walter, superintendent of the water department, announced the water in the catch basin is 70 inches below the overflow, the lowest it has been for some time.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

This country has no other choice than to aid Europe and Asia under a carefully controlled Marshall plan, Governor Dewey said last night. However, he roundly criticized the Administration's handling of both foreign and domestic affairs and denounced Russia's "cold war of propaganda, falsehood, political penetration and economic sabotage."
The only risk of war, he said, lies in "the Soviet attempt to establish police states."Former Secretary of State Byrnes also spoke severely of Russia's actions in an address at Winston-Salem, N. C. He accused Russia of delaying peace to encourage chaotic conditions "in order to accomplish political objectives" and called for a peace conference next year with or without the Soviet Union. "No one nation can veto peace on earth," he said. Mr. Byrnes warned against mixing foreign relations with politics and hoped that the two major parties would not vie over the "most belligerent policy."A third attack on "foreign diplomats" and "malicious accusers"
who assert that the United States seeks to dominate nations came from Attorney General Clark.The Foreign Ministers' deputies

FIREMEN TO MEET

There will be a meeting tonight
of the members of Bristol Volunteer Fire Company, No. 6, in the fire station at eight o'clock. There is business of importance and all members are urged to attend.

THE BRISTOL RETURNS

The right of the voters to make whatever changes they wish among their public officials on election day is the basis of the American system of free, representative-republican government.Voters of Bristol Borough exercised that right Tuesday in two units of Bristol government—the Borough Council and the School Board.In each of these, two Republican incumbents, running for re-election, were defeated. Despite the experience of these Republican nominees, the electors decided to support newcomers from the Democratic ranks.Making these defeats all the more conspicuous was the fact that otherwise it was a Republican field day in Bristol. Majorities for other State, county and local Republican nominees ranged around 400, which is a considerably better margin than has appeared in the past two years.After an election is over, there can be (and often is) endless argument as to why certain candidates won and others lost.Such disputes doubtless will be heard with reference to the defeated Republican candidates for Council and School Board.In the case of the Councilmen, it would appear that the up-sets were the result of local disappointments and grievances in the Fifth and Sixth Wards. The general returns appear to have given a fairly strong indorsement to Borough Council as a whole, and to the Council's broad policies over the entire Borough.The matter can be stated in different form. The post-war years have been a trying period to the Borough Government.
Costs have spiraled due to national inflation; unsettled financial conditions have produced a series of budget problems; serious scarcities of material and, at times, manpower, have hampered maintenance and improvements of Borough services.In most of the Borough, the voters appear to have been willing to make allowances for these conditions, where they have been disappointed in some of the results they hoped for.
In the Fifth and Sixth wards, the voters apparently "took it out" on the two veteran Republican members of Council running for re-election.

UNANSWERED QUESTION

A half century ago Brooks Adams, an original thinker on economic subjects, said:

"The future course of the United States with its vast and growing surplus, becomes the most momentous question of the age."

That prophecy was never more impressive than it is today. This is now the greatest "have" country in history, and most of the "have not" countries are clamoring for its surpluses.

But the very fact that this country has so much precludes their trading with it on any other basis than American gifts. And this country cannot preserve its well-being on a basis of giving away its substance and getting nothing in return.

The United States has been the principal world creditor since 1918. Prior to World War I, Britain performed that function. Britain played its role of lender differently. It lent money for industrial development, transportation and self-liquidating projects that, in turn, made money. Britain's loans were repaid, if not in money in raw materials.

Will the United States continue to give away its substance or will this country shrink its exports to a volume which can be paid for in money or usable raw materials? That is a question which must be answered. And it is a safe guess it will not be answered in favor of continued gifts.

No country, however rich, can donate its substance indefinitely.

SAVING THE COUNTRY

Should meatless Tuesday, eggless Thursdays and saving one slice of bread every day prove successful in providing sufficient food to permit continuance of shipments to Europe on the present scale, the idea could be developed further, with the possibility results could not only solve the world's food problem but pay off the national debt. Every day in the week could be made a day for saving.

The start could be made on Sunday. All automobiles would be kept in the garage and all but the aged and infirm, or those who live at great distances, would walk to church or stay at home and read a book. Millions of gallons of gasoline would be saved, to say nothing of human lives, etc.

On Mondays workers would do without their cigars and cigarettes. More millions. No meat on Tuesday. On Wednesday everybody would stay away from the movies and other places of entertainment. No eggs or poultry on Thursday.

Friday would be a good day to stay off the cocktails, while Saturday would be left to forego any particular item which had previously been overlooked.

Under this plan savings would pile up enormously, soon the national debt could be paid, and there would be plenty of money for other nations.

The Bristol Returns

Obviously, all this is a matter of opinion. No one can prove whether it is the whole answer or not.

A different answer is to be sought in the case of the School Board upsets. Here cutting of the two tickets for the three seats on the Board was almost Borough-wide, and took place in both parties. The successful Republican candidate, a new-comer to the Board, ran far ahead of his Republican running-mates, while one Democratic nominee trailed far behind his two fellow-candidates.

The two Republican losers each won three of the Borough's ten precincts. The winning Republican candidate carried six precincts. The two winning Democratic candidates also carried six precincts apiece. The losing Democratic nominee was ahead in three precincts.

These spotty results reflect exactly what happened, an epidemic of "split" ballots by voters from both the Democratic and Republican parties.

Coupled with the further fact that in only two cases did two running mates get identical votes in a precinct, and that in no case did all three receive the same total in any precinct, these results prove that numerous Bristol voters felt dissatisfied with recent School Board policy, and were determined to do something about it.

The School Board voting had all the earmarks of what is usually called a "protest" vote.

What were the grievances?

The Borough has, of course, heard many rumors and criticisms. Failure to make the auditorium and athletic field of the High School freely available to various groups in the community, who had no available substitute, has been a steady source of irritation. Many other points have been discussed sufficient to raise the question, in some minds, of whether the School system has been conducted, as of course it should be, for all the people of the entire community. There has been some dissatisfaction over the location and plans for the proposed new High School building.

It is easy for a School Board to drift into the assumption that it should be "above politics." This is true only in the most special uses of the word politics. Actually, a school board, like all other units of government in a republic, is definitely in politics in the broad sense of the word; it is answerable to the voters for its conduct and policies.

It is of course a human reaction on the part of the continuing members of the Board, and their friends, to resent an election outcome which can only be construed as critical of the Board's record; and to seek some line of reasoning other than accepting the returns as a mandate from the real proprietors of the school system, the Borough's electorate, for a change in policies wherever the voters have found them objectionable.

U. S. Authorities Penetrating The Japanese Mystery

people into line. The line is set by the top "oyabun."

The power of such secret organizations as the notorious Black Dragon Society. The Society was merely an organization of "oyabun" who pooled their influence to control a vast segment of the Japanese people.

The apparent eagerness of the Japanese for democracy. From the very beginning the Japanese have been eager to please the Americans. Six weeks after the occupation began an "oyabun" organized entertainment association was advertising for girls to serve "on the frontlines of international diplomacy" in dance halls and other pleasure houses catering to American soldiers.

This was the definite, crystallized policy of the oyabun, and therefore became the definite policy of the Japan which they control.

Prime Minister Tetsu Katayama, an American official said, "has no power but he's Christian, so the Japanese bosses made him Prime Minister because they know the Americans like Christians."

The "oyabun" power stems from the people themselves, who accept it as the natural social order. It developed from the farm, where the landlord is the oyabun, and from the gambling gangs of Tokyo of 300 years ago.

In both instances benevolence was a keynote of "oyabun" technique. The landlord treated the tenant like a child, helped him when crops were bad, advised him on marriage, let the rent pass on bad years, lent money on very bad years.

The gambling bosses of 300 years ago swaggered through Tokyo with swords to fight the warless knights who baited the common people. The gambling toughs were the only protection the people had against the knights, who delighted in swinging swords at defenseless citizens.

The modern "oyabun" have taken full advantage of this "Robin Hood" aspect of Japanese history. Motion pictures and novels further glorify the "oyabun" as a protector of the people.

Three gambling bosses in Tokyo told me their one aim in life was to help people.

This type of fiction has a fertile field in Japan, where for centuries the people have always been willing to surrender their individual freedom for economic security.

activities. At the present moment, there is a first aid class in Morrisville, one in Croydon at the Bucks County Rescue Squad, and one at the Paterson Farmington plant in Tullytown. If you are one of a group who would like to plan a class, contact your local first aid chairman or Charles vonWaldmichen, Branch Chairman of this service, through the Langhorne office.

Morrisville, under the leadership of Mrs. Floyd Platt, has all kinds of activity. A class in home nursing is now being planned.

Mrs. David Watson, Newtown, is the new chairman of volunteer special services. The Branch hopes to recruit a motor corps soon and she is the person to contact.

Mrs. Charles Peet, of Bristol, is another new chairman—nutrition is her specialty.

In production, the Southeastern Penna. Chapter is finishing a tremendous task in making and shipping 10,000 children's garments for overseas emergency relief.

At the present time, Red Cross relief is being extended to France, Belgium, Holland, Finland, Austria, Greece and other countries. This is an attempt to help bridge the gap until national governments, sister Red Cross societies and other local welfare organizations in these devastated countries can function effectively. The local Branch is working on boys' shirts, boys' coats and children's snowsuits. Soon there will be a hospital production program and garments for local relief.

Langhorne, Southampton, Morrisville and Yardley sewing groups are meeting regularly. Newtown will begin soon, and Bristol, which has been without a production chairman for some time, will start again under the supervision of Mrs. John Simpson. Anyone wanting to join these groups will be welcome indeed.

Junior work is at an all time high. November is the month for junior enrollment and some of the schools are packing Friendship boxes, too. The juniors have a production program and most of the classrooms are hard at work on a project. Bristol juniors have a council in the high school and manage their own affairs. Langhorne gets an ex-

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

THE origin of chicken goes back so far in history that attempting to discover it would be about as easy as finding an answer to the age-old question as to which came first, the hen or the egg.

It is on record, however, that the British raised the birds prior to the Roman conquest and the earliest writings found on the European continent also mention poultry.

The history of the industry reveals that long ago many wild fowl were found in the Asiatic countries and highly prized for their meat. It is presumed that they were later domesticated and thus found their way to the banquet tables of Europe.

Today, according to the A & P Service for Home-Makers, chicken is in good supply and there are plentiful holdings of top grade cold storage birds. Today's birds show the results of improved methods of feeding, packing and refrigeration.

There are enough ways to prepare and serve chicken to please the most critical of appetites. Whether it is better roasted, broiled, fried or baked depends solely on the taste preference of those who eat the bird and the talents of the cook.

Stuffing and gravy, the usual companions of roast chicken, can be made from a variety of tasty bases, among them bread crumbs, cracker crumbs, celery, giblets, onions, oysters, raisins and nuts. Left over portions of chicken may provide a base for luncheon sandwiches, salads, chicken a la king, croquets, and any one of an almost numberless list of delicious dishes.

For Sunday dinner, serve roast chicken with bread crumb stuffing, mashed potatoes and gravy, peas, raw carrot salad, apple pie for dessert, and coffee.

By a finger touch the Schilling will stop, start, reverse, candle sticks at $9.98 a pair. Impressive candy and mayonnaise dishes are priced at $9.98. Not only will it make handsome Christmas gifts, but it is absolutely perfect for wedding and golden wedding gifts. This is one of the most welcome revivals we've had. Prices are just about right, too. CINDERELLA'S SLIP-PEERS could have been no more glamorous than the flat little scuffs and slings of colored felts that the Snellenburg Hosiery Dept. is showing for Christmas buying. Indeed, I'm treating myself to a pair right now. They're so soft—even the soles are of the flexible felt. The shades are heavenly, one color often lined with another, and then tied by the most colorful patterned felt flowers so generously bought on the insteps. The pretty things also make enchanting trousseau or bridal shower gifts. Sizes medium and large. Scuffs cost $2.39, sling-backs $2.95. Be sure you seek for them in the Hosiery Dept. (1st fl.)

LOUNGE-OR-SLEEP

Parade of Pupils Held At Tullytown on Monday

TULLYTOWN, Nov. 6.—Pupils of Tullytown public school held their annual parade on Monday. They marched to Burton's corner, and back to the school. Prizes were awarded to: Joan Forestal, prettiest costume; Thomas Roberts, funniest; "Dickie" Baker and Glenn Gerhart, most original.

A pumpkin hunt was held on the school grounds with James Rappo being rewarded for finding the most pumpkins; "Bonnie" Rosser won in a primary room for "pinning the seal on the pumpkin"; Joseph Anella in the intermediate room; and Mary Ann Green in the junior room.

The merchants of the town donated money toward the window-decorating contest. Halloween costumes were drawn by the children. The post office window was used by Jack Walterick and "Dickie" Baker. Chick-Nick's by John Petschelt and Lewis Green; Rappo's by James Rappo and Ralph Everk; Mrs. Lovell's property by Margaret Peckly and Rose Ann Tammalia; Sumner's by John Chase and Glenn Gerhart; on's gas station by Edward Paolino and Kay Forestal; and Napoli's by Joseph Scancella and Thomas Roberts. First prize of $2 was given John Petschelt and Lewis Green; second, $1.50, to "Dickie" Baker and Jack Walterick; and third to James Rappo and Ralph Everk. Their contestants received small awards.

Consider Reading Co. Schedule of Fare Boosts

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—(INS)—The Public Utility Commission will hold a meeting November 14 to consider the Reading Company's schedule of commuter fare boosts.

The hearing was scheduled on a complaint filed by the Noble Improvement Association. Charles B. Solly, president of the Noble group, said its members believe the fare increases are discriminatory.

Solly said the price of a family ticket between Doylestown and Philadelphia was raised $7 per cent, while the same ticket costs commuters between Noble and Philadelphia and additional 22 1/2 per cent.

The school ticket between Doylestown was boosted 14 1/2 per cent. Solly continued although it was increased 29 1/2 per cent for commuters between Noble and Philadelphia. Solly cited "discriminatory" price boosts on other types of tickets, and the new rates also were unfair residents of Jenkintown, Elkins Park and Oak Lane, "except that discriminations steadily rise the farther the station is to Reading terminal" in Philadelphia.

TASTY AND THRIFTY

Food prices are higher than ever this year, so recipes for thrifty main dish services are welcome everywhere. The durum wheat products—spaghetti, macaroni and noodles are among the most versatile of economy foods. There is almost no limit to the number of tempting entrees that can be made from these versatile foods. Their bland goodness combines well with meat, fish, fowl, cheese and vegetables.

They are good buys for nourishment, too. For they supply important amounts of body-building proteins as well as energizing carbohydrates. A little meat goes a long way when served with these protein-rich foods. As little as one ounce of spaghetti, macaroni or noodles makes a serving generous enough for hearty appetites.

Latin Special is the name of today's featured luncheon or supper dish. It is easy to make. The carefully blended goodness of two kinds of condensed soups goes into making the smooth flavorful sauce. In just ten minutes this hearty service is ready for the platter. Here is the recipe:

1 tablespoon salt
2 quarts boiling water
2 ounces broad noodles
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed tomato soup
1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed mushroom soup
Minced parsley
Veal rolls or fried chicken
Add 1 tablespoon salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add noodles and boil until tender (about 5 minutes). Drain and rinse with hot water. While noodles are cooking, combine green pepper, tomato soup and mushroom soup. Simmer five minutes. Fold in hot noodles. Arrange in center of hot platter with veal rolls or fried chicken around edge. Garnish with minced parsley. Yield: 6 servings.

A Letter to You

Thanks a million for the wonderful reception you gave us. Your "ohs" and "ahs" were music to our ears. We know now that you think our idea was a good one. We think we've given you the one kind of business that Bristol lacks—a store that combines your grocery needs with your desire for something "different" to eat either right in our store or to take out.

We're making our own salads. We'll be roasting our own meats to sell you either by the quarter pound or in sandwiches and we'll be open every night 'til 12 midnight.

With your co-operation we can continue to give you to the best of our ability everything you could possibly desire in the delicatessen line.

THANKS AGAIN!

Nice Teeth Contribute To Beauty; Don't Neglect Them

A lovely smile is enhanced by beautiful teeth, so Myrna Dell of the movies, brushes hers twice a day without fail.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HIGHLY-POLISHED teeth are a dazzling contribution to beauty. That dental science has stepped along during the last decade is evident to anyone who limps into a dentist's chair.

Teeth that are discolored or in need of repair are never tolerated by individuals who take fastidious care of themselves, who understand that good appearance is necessary for social or business success.

Healthy Teeth

Sound, healthy teeth are essential to health and well-being. Since digestion begins in the mouth, and the vitality of the body is dependent upon mastication, the pearly stars must be in first class working condition. Let us impress that fact upon the young lady who prefers fur coats to dental attention. Twice a year is the rule for the visit to the dentist.

We will remove tartar that the tooth brush cannot dislodge and that often causes pain and trouble. Tartar consists of phosphate of lime deposited by saliva combined with particles of food. It banks up at the base of the teeth, causes the gums to recede.

When brushing your teeth avoid vigorous strokes toward the gums.

A Mouth Wash

Follow the thorough brushing with a mouth wash, the purpose of which is to flush away foreign particles that the brush has dislodged. If you haven't a lotion handy, use a mild salt solution. Swish it between the teeth and use plenty.

When using dental floss, be gentle and careful. It is possible to loosen fillings by harsh treatment with floss and to cut the gums.

An idea prevails that teeth like to feed upon vitamin C that is found in milk, orange juice, lettuce and eggs. The finicky eater is likely to omit food elements that will help to keep her teeth sound and healthy.

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

With the discontinuance of the electric light plant at Perkaskie, the Perkaskie borough council is faced with a rather serious problem which it hopes will be solved before the advent of cold weather. In fact, the councilmen had a chilly time at their meeting Monday evening because the council chamber was practically devoid of heat.

While the electric plant was in operation the council headquarters, the fire house and the home of Charles Beer were heated by steam generated at the plant. The Beer home was supplied heat in exchange for a right of way across his property.

Council two months ago ordered a heater for use in the Beer home, but this as yet has not arrived. Unwilling to have the agreement broken, council authorized William E. Fox, superintendent of the light department, to procure a boiler that may be installed in the Beer home temporarily.

A used boiler had been purchased previously to heat the fire house, and a chimney was constructed at a cost of more than $700. However, the oil tank and fittings have failed to arrive, with the result that the fire house cannot be heated.

With the discontinuance of the light plant, council agreed several months ago to dispose of the machinery, and during the past week the first sale was made to an oil concern in Oklahoma, which purchased three transformers for $1,125 each. Five years ago council bought the same transformers for $824 each.

Explains the Value of School Aptitude Tests

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Nov. 6.—An explanation of the use of aptitude and vocational guidance tests in secondary schools was presented by John J. Madjen, of the Philadelphia Department of Public Schools, when he spoke to members of Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club on Tuesday evening. Mr. Madjen is now serving as an advisor to the Phila. City Planning Commission.

He informed that recent data on graduates of Philadelphia schools, now employed in business and industry, indicates that the tests have aided students in selection lines of work, yielding them greater success by establishing their abilities. The speaker was engaged for this meeting, as part of the program on vocational guidance, the committee headed by Herbert Varian.

The dinner meeting was held at Royal Gardens, Bensalem township. Five Bristol high school pupils delighted with musical numbers, as follows: Vocal solo, "Thine Alone," Lester Shire; vocal duet, "Let the Rest of the World Go By," Marcia VanLangen and Joan Marsh; piano solo, "The Glow Worm," Bernice Britton; accordion number, "King March," Janice McEuen.

Harris Murray presented the final report on "Ladies' Night," informing that this affair last week was a success.

On November 11th, the Rev. Daniel Gatens, assistant rector of Our Lady of Grace R. C. Church, will deliver an Armistice address.

Morrisville Returns Republicans to Office

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 6.—Republican candidates scored a clean sweep for all Bucks County and Morrisville borough offices here Tuesday. Records show 1,377 Morrisville voters went to the polls.

They returned all four Common Council incumbents to another four years each. In the First Ward, Councilman Edward R. Roberts, Jr., defeated his Democratic opponent, Joseph T. Haley, 182 to 91. Councilman Harry M. Lair, Republican, won over Thomas J. Kane, Democrat, 141 to 87, in the Second Ward. Councilman Edwin W. Greenlee, Republican, defeated his Democratic opponent, Marvin Gandelman, 485 to 119, in the Third Ward. Councilman George H. Sanford beat out Democrat Nicholas T. Misan, 158 to 73 in the Fourth Ward.

Neal Nolan, Republican, seeking reelection as justice of the peace.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

GRAPEFRUIT, which derives its name from the grape-like clusters in which it grows, was introduced into Florida by the Spaniards early in the sixteenth century. Recognition of the value of this fruit was deferred for a long time because its peculiarity of flavor was not at first acceptable to the American palate and little care was taken in its development and culture.

Now, however, in its greatly improved form, it has become a favorite of both the North and South, a champion among breakfast fruits and puts in frequent appearances at the luncheon and dinner table.

Aside from being served halved and seeded, with the addition of a bit of sugar to suit the taste, according to the A & P Service for Home-Makers, grapefruit can be especially delicious if the flesh is removed, cut into cubes, then returned to the half shell, sprinkled with sugar and left to stand on ice in the refrigerator until well chilled. This method enables the sugar permeates more thoroughly and makes for easier eating.

Grapefruit is also especially good for preserving and jellifying and its slightly bitter taste makes it very suitable for marmalade where it can be used alone or in combination with other fruits. Its pectin or "jellifying" content is higher than that of any other citrus fruit. Grapefruit are also finding their way into more and more salads, have been used as a garnish for meats and as a source of much juice both fresh and canned.

For a delicious Sunday dinner, try roast beef with mashed potatoes and brown gravy, creamed carrots, mixed fruit salad, pumpkin pie and coffee.

SENATOR MARTIN RECOMMENDS REVISION OF FEDERAL TAX SYSTEM TO DECENTRALIZE GOVERNMENT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(INS)—Revision of the Federal tax system as a step toward decentralizing government was recommended today by U. S. Senator Edward Martin at New Orleans.

"Now the power to tax may destroy lower levels of government because the Federal Government and the State Governments have invaded areas of taxation never contemplated by the founders," he said during the annual conference of the American Municipal Association.

He suggested the Federal Government yield its right to tax certain items to prevent overlapping of levies and restricted taxing by State and local governments.

"Certain taxes, like those from gasoline, excise, inheritance and severance, should go to the States," he asserted. "Taxes such as real estate, admissions, personal property and telephone service could be used for local government."

Repeat or reduction of Federal excises would afford relief to "the greatest number of small and medium tax payers" who were the heaviest contributors to local and State levies, Martin claimed.

Along with tax cuts and eliminations, Washington also should confine its functions to national security, care of veterans, coinage, international relations, improvement of rivers and harbors and interstate affairs, Martin suggested.

To State governments could be assigned conservation of natural resources, education, health, mental hospitals, roads and flood control, he added.

Local communities should control elections, public schools, police power and local courts, according to Martin.

"A start toward a redefinition of duties should be made without delay," the Senator stated.

The cost of government had risen from two and a half billion dollars in 1913 to nearly 50 billion dollars in 1947, Martin reported. During that time local government's contributions declined from 60% to 25%, he said.

"Seventy-five per cent belongs to the Federal Government," he asserted. "It is more than a free people can afford."

PENNA. TOPS NATION
IN FUEL ENERGY*Has Greater Production of Coal Than Any Other State*NATURAL GAS OUTPUT(Prepared for The Courier by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce.)

In the total production of the fuel energy on which we depend for the heating of our homes, the operation of almost all our transportation, and the turning of the wheels of industry, Pennsylvania exceeds every state in our Nation. In addition to its coal production, which is greater than that of any other state, there is also a sizable output of energy from our natural gas and petroleum wells, and from our many sources of water power.

Energy output is most conveniently measured by the amount of heat needed to raise a pound of water one degree in temperature. This is called a British Thermal Unit. One pound of anthracite coal, for instance, if completely converted into heat could raise 13,600 pounds of water one degree in temperature. Or to put this in more simple terms, one pound of anthracite coal, if completely burned, would raise 76 pounds of water from freezing to the boiling point.

A recent study of the State's energy output, made by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce, shows that Pennsylvania output of energy in the last year for which complete figures are available (1943), was equal to 5,514 trillion British Thermal Units. This is a figure too large for the human mind to easily digest. It means that the heat energy produced by our State in one year, if completely used, would raise 15 billion tons of water from the freezing to the boiling point.

Perhaps it would be easier to comprehend the vital contribution which our State makes to the activities of our Nation if, as one journey across the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific, would take time to realize that more than one-sixth of all the power that moves our trains, lights our cities, and provides the enormous power requirements of the busiest nation in the world, comes from the mines, the wells, and the water falls of the Keystone State.

500 DOLLS ARE GIVEN BUCKS COUNTY MUSEUM

In Memory of Late Churchill
Williams; Collected By Former Mrs. Williams

A RARE COLLECTION

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 6. — With costumes complete to the last detail, 500 dolls have been given to Bucks County Historical Society. The dolls, from practically every country in the world, were collected by Mrs. Lyon Smith, the former Mrs. Churchill Williams, during her travels.

The dolls represent almost every nationality and type of person in the world. Each doll has been carefully labeled by Mrs. Smith. In presenting the collection to the society, Mrs. Smith stated that the dolls were given in memory of her late husband, Colonel Churchill Williams, who loved Bucks county.

The collection, which includes dolls made from china, soap, corn husk, straw, felt, clothes pins, nuts and silk, are on display in the local museum. A number of the dolls came from Independence, Missouri, where almost any type of doll can be obtained. A large number of the dolls are Chinese and Russian which were obtained during Mrs. Smith's travels through Asia and Europe.

Outstanding in the collection are dolls, eight inches tall, of the late President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin, Chiang Kai-shek and Madame Chiang Kai-shek. A replica of George VI. of England, wearing Royal Stuart plaid, is contained in the collection. Miniatures forming a Chinese wedding procession and a Chinese funeral procession occupy one shelf of the display case.

A duplicate of Madame Tene De-Merode, which is 50 years old, is one of the most interesting dolls on display. Any youngster would be delighted with a Japanese doll that has five wigs to be changed as the doll advances from childhood into womanhood.

Dolls from Mexico, Spain, Italy, Norway, Sweden, France, Ireland, Russia, Switzerland, Germany, South America, Central America and Asia form a part of the enormous collection. Beautiful rhumba dancers and tumbadors from Havana, Cuba, are among the most colorful characters in the collection.

Replicas of Scarlett O'Hara, Captain Ahab, Amish people, Negro dolls, sailors and fictional characters are a small part of the American collection. Many of the dolls have been entered in doll shows and were successful in winning ribbons.

Among the most unusual are a Norway witch and a troll, Russian dancing dolls and Chinese family scenes and hula dancers from Hawaii.

COLOR IS IMPORTANT IN MAKING OF THE BOUQUETS FOR FALL

By Flora-May Sagui

(Home Economics Representative)

There still is time to gather material for fall and winter flower arrangements. Collect enough so you can change an arrangement when it begins to fade or becomes dusty.

For color in fall bouquets there is the bright red or orange of mountain ash, holly hips, bittersweet, partridge and checkerberry, and swamp or black alder. For shiny black berries there is pokeberry and the fruit of cultivated shrubs. For a lovely contrast there is the waxy white snowberry, found in hedges along the highway. The golden yellow of twisted blossoms of the witch hazel, the last flowering bush of the year, is an excellent addition to the color display.

Dry grasses in their varied tones of buff, rust, and brown may be combined with these fruits and berries. Red streamers of blackberry vines or a bit of evergreen will give weight and color contrast to an arrangement.

Because nature's colors are subtle, they must be arranged against a plain background. Neutral walls of sand, buff, and gray are excellent backgrounds, bringing out not only the color but showing the interesting line of each twig.

Containers must be appropriate for the material to be arranged in them. Earthenware, pottery, dull copper or metal and containers of wood all seem to repeat the sturdiness of plant material. The needle-point holder may be hidden with a piece of rock, gray lichen, bark, or a weather-worn piece of wood or root.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germs laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

PENNSYLVANIA FARM ROUNDUP

By Jack Ward

(I. N. S. Penna. Farm Editor)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—Pennsylvania's multi-million dollar conservation program has taken a long step forward with establishment of a "tree farm" program for the state's 15,000,000 acres of privately owned timberlands.

Sponsored by the Department of Forests and Waters in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Forestry Association, the new program was open to all owners of five or more acres of woodland, including forest tree plantations not used primarily for production of Christmas trees, according to forestry officials.

In a booklet describing the tree farm system, the Forest and Waters Department listed as its objectives:

1. "To increase the value of the tree 'crop' to Pennsylvanians.

2. "To protect the forests of the state so they will be a perpetual source of income to their owners and to the thousands of Pennsylvanians who derive employment from forest industries."

To qualify land as an approved tree farm, the owner must protect his property from forest fires and excessive grazing and follow approved practices for assuring continuous production of commercial timber crops.

Upon receipt of an application for designation as a tree farm, the Department of Forests and Waters will have a forester survey the land and advise the owner of beneficial steps required for qualification, the booklet explained.

When timber on an official tree farm requires cutting, the sponsoring groups will supply a forester to advise on proper forest utilization practices and the best methods of marketing lumber.

Benefits from the program will include "regular income from work in the woods, the sale of forest products, operation of mills and factories, more fish and game, and reduced land erosion," the pamphlet explained.

The Commonwealth's small acreage farmers, comprising 39 per cent of the state's farm, can play an important role in filling the world's food basket through more intensive land cultivation, a study of farm production methods showed.

The survey disclosed that Pennsylvania's 65,000 truck farmers, specialty growers and subsistence farmers could add "substantially" to the state's $676,770,000 farm yield by adoption of new tilling and cultivating methods.

"Practically all of the nation's 2,300,000 farms of 50 acres or less can expect to benefit from methods of improving seed beds," a spokesman said.

"With America holding the world's food basket, the burden of increased food production may well rest squarely on the shoulders of the small farmer and his ability to cultivate his land more intensively."

Square Biscuits,
Yet!

I see by a neighboring paper, that the round biscuit is on the way out. Yes, sir, home-management specialists have found that the square biscuit lends itself to assembly-line production and easy storage better than those customary ovals.

Well, we're all for progress, but that's one new idea we just don't cotton to. A round biscuit, spread nicely amidst with snappy country cheese, looks like a biscuit! And accompanied by a mellow glass of beer, it's a combination that you can't improve on!

So at the risk of being called old-fashioned, I'm voting for round biscuits, that fit a hungry man's mouth like no square imitation ever will... and for American beer served in the good old-fashioned way, in tall, cool mugs or ordinary glasses, with frosty sides and bubbles winking at the brim!

Think I'll step out to the kitchen for a snack right now!
